Hullo!

When you see a man in a wig, Walk straight up and say "Hullo!" Say "Hullo!" and "How d'ye do?" How the world has been using you? Slip the fellow on his back, Bring your hand down with a whack! Waltz straight up and don't go slow, Shake his hand and say, "Hullo!" Is he clothed in rage? Oh, ho, Walk straight up and say, "Hullo!" Rage are but a cotton roll, Just for wrapping up a soul; And a soul is worth a true Halo and hearty, "How d'ye do?" Don't wait for the crowd to go, Walk straight up and say, "Hullo!"

When big vessels meet, they say, They salute and sail away; Just the same as you and me, Lonely ships upon the sea, Each one sailing his own jag For a port beyond the fog; Let your speaking trumpet blow, Lift your horn and cry, "Hullo!"

Say "Hullo!" and "How d'ye do?" Other folks are good as you, When you leave your house of clay, Wandering in the far away, When you travel through the strange Country far beyond the range, Then the souls you've cheered will know Who you be and say "Hullo!" —Sam Walter Foss.

MUNICIPAL MOVIES MAY SOON COME INTO VOGUE

One Kansas Town Already Owns the Nickel Theater.

Having rounded up 192 municipal lighting plants, 17 gas plants and more than 200 water plants, Kansas is now after municipal ownership of its motion picture theaters. One Kansas town already owns its motion picture house and refuses to let any private competitor come in. Three other towns are arranging for municipally owned and conducted movie houses.

Kansas believes in municipal ownership not because of any theoretical views, but because of actual experience, says the Kansas City Star. Community after community has entered the field of electric lighting, for example, and without exception they have lowered their rates and improved their service. All the publicity of utility monopolists avails nothing in the face of the concrete facts as Kansas has discovered them. You can't tell a Kansan that municipal ownership is a failure and get away with it when the city light plant which he patronizes has cut his bills in two and given him better service.

Kansas has a public utility commission, but there is no "certificate of convenience and necessity" provision, as in Wisconsin, which gives the private company in the field an everlasting monopoly and a perpetual franchise. Corporation "regulations" tried to tack such a provision on to the Kansas law at the last session of the Kansas legislature, but the municipal ownership people in Kansas proved too much for them.

If he doesn't like the way the public utility corporation does business the Kansan demands, as an inalienable right that he be free to tackle the business himself. The welfare of a whole community is more to him than the fictitious "right" of any eastern capitalist to bleed a people indefinitely merely because he has an investment made originally for that purpose.

If the individual capitalist can do business on the same basis as the city—and he usually can if he is forced by competition to do so—he is welcome to continue in operation. If he can't he may seek other investments in other states, where there is greater reverence for "widowed and orphaned" stockholders and the divinity of 7 per cent.

STATE CAPITOLS TOO SMALL.

Many Not Large Enough to House the Offices.

One-third of the states of the Union find their capitol inadequate to accommodate the increased state activities that have grown up in recent years, according to data gathered by the Columbus (O.) chamber of commerce, and are wrestling with the problem of finding additional room. To aid the Ohio building commission the organization has secured information from many states on the manner in which the problems are being solved.

The majority seem to favor the plan of erecting a new office building as an annex to the present capitol. In some states the plan has been to build additions to present structures or to remodel the buildings to make more room.

Washington has gone in for a comprehensive group plan of state buildings to cost more than $6,000,000, while California is bringing to completion a new capitol costing a similar amount. Each is located in a large park. Compared to these the Ohio plan to spend little more than $1,000,000 is thought to be very modest.

At Madison, Wis., is being completed a new statehouse that has cost $7,000,000, while in Nashville, Tenn., the plan is to build a separate office structure. The same sort of plan is entertained in Nebraska, Michigan, like Ohio, is getting ready to provide additional rooms for state departments. In none of the states does it appear that the rent of outside quarters has been made a political issue, as it was in Ohio.

Side Dressing

We have an ideal Fertilizer for Side Dressing Cotton and Corn. It is heavily charged with soda for quick action and then the other ammoniates in this Side Dressing will continue the growth started up by the soda. These goods are made especially for Side Dressing and is just what the crop needs. A great many people think Cotton will bring a good price next fall. If it does, you will want all you can make. If it should be low you will need all you can make. Side Dressing applied early makes more Cotton, there is no earthly question about that. It brings you in about $3.00 for every dollar you pay out.

It should be applied just as fast as you get your Cotton thinned to a stand and cleaned out.

We are ready with the goods.

The cotton crop is about 15 days late at this time. Side dressing may prove unusually profitable this year if we have an early frost.
